Abortion is a focus of early action in legislative sessions Republicans who control a majority of the nation’s statehouses are considering a wide range of abortion legislation that could test the government’s legal ability to restrict a woman’s right to terminate pregnancy. from info@BernieSanders.com: [A]n issue of grave consequence that affects the lives of millions of Americans and greatly impacts our democracy - namely the continued federal prohibition on marijuana and the need for reform of our criminal justice system:

As you know, a number of states (including my state of VT) have decriminalized or legalized the possession, use and sale of marijuana in recent years... The criminal justice system is not the answer to drug abuse. Addiction is a health problem and we should start treating it that way. While communities all across the country lack adequate resources for treatment or prevention, we are spending approximately $50 billion a year on the war on drugs. That's absurd. Sign my petition if you agree it is long past time for the government to end its failed war on drugs and instead invest in programs that focus on treatment and prevention of drug abuse. This is an important issue that impacts almost everyone and we should all make our voices heard.

This so-called war on drugs has... over 2 million people in prison... the highest rate in the world - higher even than authoritarian countries like China, Saudi Arabia, and Russia. People with felony convictions cannot vote in many states. Today, for that reason alone, over 6 million Americans are denied access to the ballot. This has got to change. We need the highest voter turnout in the world, not the highest incarceration rate...”

Last Friday, the Northern Center joined several other environmental organizations in filing a lawsuit, represented by Anchorage-based firm Trustees for Alaska, against the Department of the Interior and the Bureau of Land Management (BLM). The lawsuit challenges BLM’s December 2017 offering of more than 10 million acres to the oil and gas industry. Though only a small percentage of that land received bids, BLM did not follow the requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) in examining the impacts extractive development would have, and this disregard for public process must be corrected before another lease sale occurs... “State and local officials said they plan to ask for more time from the federal government to deal with smoke pollution in Fairbanks and North Pole. “Veterans For Peace completely condemns the Trump Administration’s plans for a military parade later this year. We call on all people who believe in our nation’s democratic ideals to stand together and say no to this outrageous, pomp and circumstance parade of military personnel and hardware for no reason other than to feed a pompous ego. The Administration claims that the purpose of the parade is to give, “a celebration at which all Americans can show their appreciation.” But there has not been a call by U.S. service members or veterans for a parade — and there still does not need to be. The evaluation should be, would a parade of military personnel and hardware be a fitting way to recognize and honor our service members? Is it a reflection of values we cherish in this country? We answer: No. It’s a waste of time and troops are too busy.”

If the president wants to show gratitude to the troops, provide real support:

- Develop better programs and services to reduce suicide rates
- Cultivate a culture where asking for help to manage Post Traumatic Stress is not perceived as weak.
- Stop trying to privatize the Veterans Health Administration and provide it with more funding and staff.
- Continue to reduce the number of homeless veterans.
- Increase the pay of service members who must use SNAP, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (also known as food stamps) to feed their families.
- Stop Deporting Veterans, separating them from their friends and families including their children. Thank them for their service by bringing them home.

Finally, stop these endless wars and turn away from war as the main tool of U.S. foreign policy. Nothing is more sacred to a soldier than peace. Countless deployments and a foreign policy that consistently creates new enemies is abusive and immoral. It guarantees a stream of deaths and broken families, bodies and minds...” Read the entire Statement” “Salon’s Alyona Minkovski spoke to three veterans on “Salon Now,” who all agreed that the multi-million dollar cost of a parade would be better spent on helping the VA address issues like homelessness, mental health and educational services.” Check out the short video!

Open Letter to President Donald Trump and President Vladimir Putin” from Friends Committee on National Legislation: “[2-10-18] the [U.S.] House and Senate reached a 2-yr budget deal that gave a massive raise to the Pentagon & a smaller raise to domestic programs...Congress still failed to give Dreamers a pathway to citizenship -- but there were some key wins for desperately-needed disaster relief and some domestic programs. Since Alaska Chief Justice Stowers became chief justice in 2015, there has been an 11 % drop in court staff due to budget cuts. FDNM “Group picks Alaska to challenge unlimited campaign donations ...in a bid to get the U.S. Supreme Court to revisit a 2010 decision that upset how campaigns are run in this country. The court decision, “Citizen United” v. FEC, paved the way for corporations and unions to make unlimited independent expenditures, and in Alaska, was viewed by state officials as likely rendering several provisions of law prohibiting or limiting certain contributions unconstitutional.

Washington, D.C.-based Equal Citizens wants to put that interpretation to the test... supporting complaints... filed with the Alaska Public Offices Commission over contributions made in the 2016 election to independent groups that backed candidates to the Alaska Legislature. One group supported a Republican and the other leaned toward Democrats during the general election.

The complaints contend that state law would cap contributions of individuals or other groups to $500 and $1,000 a year, respectively, but that the law was flouted... with special interest and union organizations contributing about $50,000 or more, the complaints allege...

Staff for the Alaska Public Offices Commission has concluded the complaints should be rejected. If the commission agrees, the matter can be appealed to state court.

2009, ’Jimmy Fox, co-ordinator for the group, said in a statement.

“The state acknowledged hospitalizations from smoke were going up at the hospital as far back as 2003.”

FDNM LETTER TO THE EDITOR Feb. 4 All of us own air quality problem To the editor: ... To add to the mess is the impending impact of the F-35-induced population increase, especially in the North Pole area, which has already exceeded its biological human “carrying capacity.” It is extremely disingenuous to ask for a five-year extension, while encouraging more growth and development in the worst air pollution area in the nation, plus to request an extension on the Serious State Implementation Plan, which was due to be submitted to the EPA in December 2017.

Our children conceived here in 2006 are now fifth- and sixth-graders. With what we know about the health effects, how can a five-year extension on our homework be even conscionable? All of us own this problem and we need to work on the solution together.

Jeanne Olson, NORTH POLE”
