Every Vote Counts! In the recent election for board members of Interior Alaska’s electric co-operative, Golden Valley Electric Association, the candidate known to place importance on sustainability issues and supported by Fairbanks Climate Action Coalition, Gary Newman, won by a margin of 5 out of 99 votes cast in that district. Going forward, Gary wrote, “We also drafted a revision to our renewable pledge based upon a reduction in carbon.”

U.S.-SOUTH KOREA MILITARY EXERCISES ‘SUSPENDED INDEFINITELY,” a senior U.S. official confirmed to AFP: “The U.S. military has indefinitely postponed major joint exercises with South Korea, an official told AFP on Thursday, acting on President Donald Trump's pledge to halt the 'provocative' military drills following his summit with North Korea's Kim Jong Un.

WAR REPORT — U.S. TURNS DOWN MILITARY AID REQUEST FROM UAE IN YEMEN CAMPAIGN, reports The Washington Post: “The United States on Wednesday turned down a request from the United Arab Emirates to provide intelligence, overhead reconnaissance and mine-sweeping aid to a newly launched military offensive against the rebel-occupied Yemeni port of Hodeida, according to Emirati and U.S. officials... “The Trump administration is under pressure from lawmakers to limit U.S. support for the three-year-old war being conducted by a regional coalition led by Saudi Arabia and the Emirates against the Iran-backed Houthi rebel forces.”

Yemeni forces push farther toward Hodeidah, reports The Wall Street Journal.

(from codepink.org): “Not only did the Singapore meeting of Donald Trump and Kim Jong-un result in a pledge of “no more war,” but President Trump even called out U.S.- South Korea war games as provocative and counterproductive. In advance of the summit, the Trump administration said that an agreement with North Korea will be in the form of a treaty. This means that it will be up to the Senate to ratify. Can you take a moment to contact your Senators and tell them to support a U.S.- North Korea peace treaty? Let’s take this opportunity to finally end a 70-year long conflict! The fatal flaw of the Iran deal was that it was not a treaty and therefore didn’t require ratification from the Senate, so it was very easy for Trump to withdraw from the agreement.

(from Friends Committee on National Legislation: “Support a Tribal Set-Aside in Crime Victims Fund In some rural communities, Native women face a murder rate that is ten times higher than the national average. Despite having crime rates significantly higher than the rest of the country, Native victims in these communities are less likely to receive assistance and services.

As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, your senator, Sen. Lisa Murkowski, can help by supporting a 5% tribal set-aside of the Crime Victims Fund. Will you urge her to support a 5% tribal set-aside?

The CVF is unique in that its funding comes from offenders, not taxpayers, and it goes directly to help victims of crime. But without this intentional allocation of the CVF, tribal communities have limited access to funding, despite having the highest rates of crime. Native communities need at least a 5% set-aside to get the resources necessary to heal and prevent crime.

Please contact Sen. Murkowski now and urge her to support the tribal set-aside in the CVF.

With your support, this set-aside will fund victim services within tribal justice systems and will both prevent crime and violence and help victims and their families heal.

(from info@standforsalmon.org): “We began more than five years ago as a grassroots network of Alaskans around the state concerned about a series of bills that threatened to truly cut our voices out of the picture. Since then, we’ve grown into a powerful movement of Alaskans working to protect salmon habitat. And recently, our growth has motivated some changes to our look and feel. We invite you to take a look at our website. We’re excited about sharing it with you and your friends!

“During its May 31 mtg.,... the U.A. Board of Regents approved a plan to eliminate the School of Natural Resources and Extension and move the school’s academic degrees to the College of Natural Science and Mathematics, effective June 30, 2019. Under the plan, Extension will return to being a stand-alone unit. A committee of academic faculty from both units provided input on the decision. Planning for the transition will continue for the next year. All of the school’s bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral degrees will continue to be offered.”

“The Alaska Association of Agriculture and Natural Resource Educators is hosting [Curriculum for Agricultural Science Education] training July 22 to Aug. 1...sponsored by the National Association of Agricultural Educators...The association hopes the training will increase the number of Alaska teachers who teach natural resources and agriculture.”

“...at the Organic Confluences Conference in Washington, D.C., on May 21...to explore ways that Extension can encourage adoption of organic techniques in traditional farming. The Organic Center, a nonprofit based in Washington, D.C., hosted the conference. The center says that Alaska is believed to have the highest per capita rate of organic farmers in the nation.”

“Revised solar design manual released...Extension has released a new edition of “A Solar Design Manual for Alaska.” Energy Specialist Art Nash and Chris Pike and Erin Whitney, research engineers with the Alaska Center for Energy and Power, updated the manual, which was written by former energy specialist Rich Seifert and first published in 1981. The fifth edition includes many updates, an expanded section on solar photovoltaic technology and two new appendices. One includes case studies of Alaskans who use solar energy, and a second appendix describes how to use solar energy to heat greenhouses and extend the growing season.

The guide includes information on solar design, components, current standards and codes, solar economics and financing, solar heating technologies, passive solar heating and active solar water heating. The 108-page guide may be downloaded at http://bit.ly/2JXW8Pc. Print copies are available for $15 and may be ordered at 877-520-5211.”

“Alaska Center” update excerpts from albayan@akstate.edu: “...about the Climate Action Leadership Team and our official comment to them regarding their Climate Action Draft. Even though the comment period is over, the Team hopes to send out a report on the comments they’ve gotten, along with next steps they plan to execute. We’re excited to see what they draw from our communities, and I hope to fill you in soon on what they plan next!”

from the Center for Victims of Torture

“We cannot accept the...Administration tearing families apart and working to deny asylum to whole categories of persecuted people, those fleeing domestic or gang violence in particular. URGENT CALL TO ACTION: Call Congress today and express your outrage! We must condemn family separation and oppose immigration legislation that punishes or reduces protections for asylum seekers and other vulnerable populations.

“Sitting with survivors of torture daily, we know they are haunted by intrusive memories, excessive rumination and nightmares, with repeated episodes of actively re-experiencing past traumas. They have lost their sense of safety and feel that their identity and role in society is erased. They struggle with sleep disorders, anxiety, chronic pain, irritability, startle responses, suicidal ideation and depression.

“The ...administration’s recent decisions will both exacerbate these harms, and inflict new ones.”
