Militarism in the Media Webinar - Militarism, violence, and war are pervasive in pop culture and the entertainment industry. The mainstream news media largely refuse to critique skyrocketing military spending and the vast negative impacts of perpetual warfare. Join World BEYOND War for our free webinar featuring experts Jeff Cohen and Rose Dyson on role of media in promoting war and violence. Militarism is the “elephant in the room,” says FAIR founder Jeff Cohen. Former TV pundit for MSNBC, CNN, and Fox, Jeff was fired for shedding light on the perils of U.S. interventionism and in particular, for opposing the invasion of Iraq on the air. Rose Dyson, President of Canadians Concerned About Violence in Entertainment, expresses concern about the culture of war that is perpetuated by TV, music, video games, and social media.

from Stop the War Machine “SWM-D The USA has directly killed nearly half a million people, and doomed millions more .. in just 3 countries now being attacked !

“Brown University’s Costs of War Project this month released a new estimate of the total death toll from the U.S. wars in three countries: Iraq, Afghanistan, and Pakistan. The numbers, while conservatively estimated, are staggering. Brown’s researchers estimate that at least 480,000 people have been directly killed by violence over the course of these conflicts, more than 244,000 of them civilians. In addition to those killed by direct acts of violence, the number of indirect deaths — those resulting from disease, displacement, and the loss of critical infrastructure — is believed to be several times higher, running into the millions...

“The figures still just ‘scratches the surface of the human consequences of 17 years of war.”

Regarding the Fbks City Council’s postponed rights-protection proposed ordinance: “From: https://www.facebook.com/Generation-Action-at-UAF-302067735017/ Our statement strongly supporting Fairbanks City Council Ordinance 6093. This ordinance makes race, ethnicity, gender, sex, and ability protected classes, meaning Fairbanksans are not allowed to be discriminated against in housing, employment, or services because of one of these parts of their identity. If they are, they will be able to pursue legal action right here at home, rather than traveling to Juneau! Friendly reminder that Alaska does NOT protect LGBTQ+ people at all right now! We can be fired, kicked out of our homes, denied services, etc. Anchorage, Sitka, and Juneau have passed local protections but Fairbanksans remain vulnerable. This ordinance is one step closer to a community free from fear and violence. Do you want to get involved? Testify ... at 6:15 at the Fairbanks City Council Chambers (800 Cushman St, Fairbanks, AK) ... Testimony must be under 3 minutes, and you should stay positive. Sustainability

“Please join us for an interactive and educational workshop to develop a communications strategy for changing the conversation around Air Quality in the Fairbanks area. During the course of the workshop, we’ll learn what behavior, cognitive and social science can teach us about how to move beyond merely raising awareness to messages that motivate people to care enough to act. We’ll do this with the help of lessons from a recent Stanford Social Innovation workshop that includes real-world examples of successful public interest communications campaigns. “These lessons will be followed by time for structured brainstorming on how we can apply them to the air quality conversation in the Fairbanks and North Pole nonattainment areas. We’ll end the day by planning how to coordinate the messaging on air quality to strengthen outreach being done by different businesses and nonprofits across the community.

“And finally we'll discuss whether we want to form a coalition with the potential to maximize our effectiveness in changing the conversation around air quality so we can bring our communities into attainment - with all the health and economic benefits that brings.

“If you represent a group that wants to be part of the community conversation on air quality (even if you are just representing yourself), please join us. In addition to helping us develop an effective communications strategy on air quality, you'll go home with a greater understanding of how you can use science-based communications strategies to create lasting change on other topics you care about since these lessons don't just relate to air quality.

“This workshop is open to the public, so feel free to forward this to others who may be interested.

“It will be most effective to attend this participatory workshop in person, but if you need to call in you can follow along at zoom.”

Asymmetric Moose Music Picks Week of Jan. 13, 2019:
Hello, this is Rob Mulford with the Asymmetric Moose Music Picks of the week of January 13, 2019. Every New Year season I try to read a couple good books a week for a couple of weeks. I do this as much for my own enjoyment as I do for spiritual, social and political enlightenment. This past week I read Black Elk Speaks, the beautifully written tale of spirituality and history as told by Black Elk, a Oglala Sioux holy man, through John G. Neihardt. Also this week I have just about finished a real page-turner that I discovered while listening to Bruce E. Levine, the author, being interviewed on a program aired on this station. The book is titled Resisting Illegitimate Authority, A Thinking Persons Guide To Being An-Antiauthoritarian – Strategies, Tools, and Models. The models include such thinking antiauthoritarians as Tecumseh, Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, Thomas Paine, Ralph Nader, Malcolm X, Eugene Debs, and Emma Goldman, to name some. A great read I highly recommend it. The book inspired my selection this week.

Wikipedia quotes cultural blogger John Pietaro saying, "Hazel Dickens didn’t just sing the anthems of labor, she lived them and her place on many a picket line, staring down gunfire and goon squads, embedded her into the cause." Indeed this woman was the real thing, her presence and voice rang out with authenticity. The song is. - Are they Gonna Make Us Outlaws Again

Next, late prolific Jamaican reggae singer Dennis Brown, sings a tribute to one of those Anti Illegitimate Authoritarians, truly a man of the people, who was assassinated for speaking truth to power - Malcolm X

In the next tune, another Antiauthoritarian model featured in the Thinking Persons Guide, PHIL OCHS sings “I AIN’T MARCHING ANYMORE”.

Next, Gil Scott Heron sings, The Revolution Will Not Be Televised, and I might add it wont be Tweeted either.

Next, Peter, Paul, and Mary sing Have You Been To Jail For Justice

As an ally to the Lakota peoples at Standing Rock back in 2016, I was required to attend a training session for allys before taking part in water protector actions. We were reminded, at the time that indigenous people have five hundred years fighting colonialism, and that we were appreciated but we needed to understand that. In 1493 Pope Alexander VI issued a Papal Bull called the Doctrine of Discovery giving Christian Nations the Right to enslave, murder, and dispossess lands of the indigenous peoples they colonized. Ashamedly the Doctrine remains law today, it should be rescinded by the Vatican and removed from law. Next the Canadian group, Digging Roots, sings the haunting Memego.
