2. Homeless families, with at least one member who tested positive for COVID-19...
3. Homeless individuals who require quarantine or isolation.

This mandate will remain in effect until rescinded.

4-15-20: Health Mandate 015 – Services by Health Care Providers [supersedes Mandate 005 and 006 and affects the health care providers directly addressed in Mandate 009; supersedes any & all local government mandates or orders] effective April 20... * State of Alaska reserves the right to change this mandate at any time *... [Has numerous provisions, including conditional Provision for Resuming Non-Urgent/Non-Emergent Elective Services starting May 4

4-9-20: Health Mandate 011: Social Distancing "will be reevaluated by April 21, 2020."

"Do you need more time to pay your rent because of COVID-19? Alaska Legal Services Corporation (ALSC) partnering with AKPIRG has created an informational guide and request template for individuals who wish to defer rent payments or modify their rental agreements. from AK Sen. Click Bishop: "There’s talk of slowly relaxing restrictions that have been in place since March 11, 2020, and for implementing a return-to-work protocol. Starting Monday, many elective health procedures will be allowed to resume.

Even so, doctors and other experts urge us to go slow. Be slow, be safe, they say. Go step by step, stage by stage. And only start to relax restrictions if four things occur: [emphasis added]

1. A decrease in the number of coronavirus cases over 14 days
2. Increased hospital capacity or a return to pre-coronavirus crisis conditions in hospitals
3. Ample and aggressive testing
4. Robust contact tracing to track down and isolate those with COVID-19

"The Internal Revenue Service last Wednesday started sending $1,200 economic impact payments ... Social Security recipients will automatically get checks later this month. Paper checks are expected to go out soon – if not already. .. There have been reports of glitches. To check on whether yours has hit a snag, track the status of your payment, provide Uncle Sam with direct-deposit information, or answer any questions you may have, go to the IRS website, Get My Payment.

"Unemployment insurance benefits - ... The [Alaska Department of Labor and Workforce Development] last Monday started issuing the new, $600 federal pandemic unemployment compensation to workers affected by impacts of the coronavirus. The first $12.8 million disbursement went out to 16,183 Alaskans currently covered by unemployment insurance. Apply as soon as possible, if you haven’t done so already, to get the maximum amount of unemployment benefits. Payments are retroactive to the week ending April 4, 2020 and are in addition to state unemployment benefits. Those who got a check for the week ending April 4, will receive a separate disbursement with the $600 federal payment. The federal pandemic unemployment payment will be available for each week of eligibility under a state or federal unemployment insurance program for roughly four months – through July 25, 2020. If, for example, you get $200 a week in traditional unemployment benefits, you now will get $800 a week – $200 plus $600 – for roughly four months.

"New Pandemic Unemployment Assistance for those who are self-employed and out of work"

The state labor department will get cracking Monday, April 20, to process applications for self-employed, independent contractors, and gig-economy workers. Payments are expected about two weeks later and will be retroactive to the week ending April 4. If you’re self-employed and out of work, start applying now for regular benefits even though you likely will be denied. This may sound nuts, but federal rules require independent contractors and gig-economy workers be denied traditional benefits in order to qualify for new Pandemic Unemployment Assistance. The state will send you a notice by mail that says you’re not eligible for regular benefits. Keep all documentation and keep filing weekly. Get ready to provide wage or self-employment earnings documentation – … anything that shows employment or earnings prior to unemployment caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"To file online: Go to my.Alaska.gov. Click on the Unemployment Insurance Benefits link For help over the phone, call … • Fairbanks – (907) 451-2871"

"Payment Protection Program"
The popular program, administered by banks, offers low-interest, federally backed loans for up to eight weeks. If an employer uses the money to keep employees, cover paychecks, or pay rent, mortgage, and other obligations to keep the business running, much of the loan will be forgiven. The program is now out of cash but is waiting for an expected infusion from Congress. For more on it and economic injury disaster loans and grants, go here – and be ready to act fast as soon as more federal funds are approved by Congress and the president.

"Moratorium on utility disconnections" - The legislature last month approved a moratorium during the coronavirus crisis on utility disconnections. Although the Regulatory Commission of Alaska is not responsible for implementing it, the agency has developed a 3-page document – here – that spells out obligations for utilities and customers, based on the bill passed by lawmakers, and an affidavit for customers to use with their utility to avoid disconnections. Senate Bill 241, the measure establishing this COVID-19 disconnection moratorium, provided the following requirements:

-- Utilities – be they electric, gas, trash, or water – can’t disconnect service for nonpayment if a customer has:

1. Supplied a sworn statement that non-payment is due to a COVID-19-related hardship
2. Negotiated a payment plan with the utility

-- If a disconnection has occurred, the utility must reconnect

-- Repayment plans can’t be shorter than the length of the disaster

-- If customers comply with repayment plans, utilities can’t charge late fees or interest

Because SB 241 has the term ‘natural person’ and not ‘person,’ the disconnection moratorium will not apply to a business that owns a building. It applies to a person who is a residential utility customer.

"Legislative Update" - The legislature is now in recess, but lawmakers can reconvene soon, if necessary. The Alaska Constitution allows a legislative session to last 121 days… Wednesday, May 20, 2020. … lawmakers may need to meet in the near future to approve the $1.25 billion that the federal government is expected to send Alaska on or by April 24… [H]ere is an Alaska Division of Legislative Finance spreadsheet that breaks down the $107.6 million the legislature and the governor have provided so far for coronavirus relief…"

IN THE NEAR FUTURE:
The Fireweed Collective Society advises that, "April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month. This is a time of crisis for everyone. In particular, women who are isolated within domestic violence are often already used to being isolated, alone and scared. The pandemic makes the threat to her safety and well-being even worse. When women are isolated in an abusive situation, their abuser will often limit her chance to connect with the outside world. Her access to a phone could mean life or death, it could mean getting kids out of that situation and it could mean YOU had a chance to make a difference. If you can support women by donating your old cell phones, you could be saving a life! Thank-you!"

* audio & music played with this week's broadcast:

"Hello this is The Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford with picks of the week of April 19, 2020. According to an article written by David Brennan in Newsweek this past Wednesday the 15th of April. Former President Jimmy Carter told the congregation of his church last Sunday that President Trump had called him the previous day seeking President Carter’s advice on China."
"China is getting ahead of us," lamented President Trump, "Economic modeling indicates that China will overtake the U.S. as the world's strongest economy by 2030.

Answering President Trump's concerns, President Carter shared the following: "Since 1979, do you know how many times China has been at war with anybody?" Carter asked. "None. And we have stayed at war."

The U.S., he noted, has only enjoyed 16 years of peace in its 242-year history, making the country "the most warlike nation in the history of the world."

"How many miles of high-speed railroad do we have in this country?" Carter asked. While China has some 18,000 miles of high-speed rail, the U.S. has "wasted, I think, $3 trillion" on military spending. "It's more than you can imagine. China has not wasted a single penny on war, and that's why they're ahead of us. In almost every way."

"And I think the difference is if you take $3 trillion and put it in American infrastructure you'd probably have $2 trillion leftover. We'd have high-speed railroad. We'd have bridges that aren't collapsing, we'd have roads that are maintained properly. Our education system would be as good as that of say South Korea or Hong Kong."

Thank You, President Carter. Thank you President Trump for seeking such sound advice; I pray you take it to heart.

In light of war being an obscene misplacement of priority, Venezuela President Nicolas Maduro’s open letter to the People of the United States of America is insightful.

"Caracas, April 3, 2020
To the People of the United States of America:

For weeks now, the world stands still, trying to control a pandemic that, without any doubt, is the greatest challenge we have faced together as a society and as international community. Our priority is confronting it, as is the priority of the people of the United States.

Fortunately, in Venezuela, we have been able to count on some advantages. We took very early measures of social distancing and amplified testing, relying on our free and public healthcare system that counts doctors throughout the country with what we call family. We also rely on the invaluable community-based organizations to help raise social awareness and support the most vulnerable sectors. The solidarity of Cuba, China, and Russia, and the support of the World Health Organization has likewise allowed us to obtain necessary medical supplies despite Donald Trump’s illegal sanctions.

In expressing my solidarity to you in this important historic challenge, as well as our consternation and grief for the consequences of the pandemic in the U.S., I also have the obligation to make you aware that as the world focuses on dealing with the COVID-19 emergency, the Trump Administration, once again instrumentalizing institutions in order to fulfill electoral objectives, and based on infamies under the pretext of the War on Drugs, has ordered the largest U.S. military deployment in our region in the last 30 years, with the purpose of threatening Venezuela and bringing to our region a costly, bloody, military conflict of indefinite duration.

In the runup to this fallacious maneuver, last March 26, William Barr, an Attorney General of questionable independence (who recommended the 1989 invasion of Panama against Noriega and helped cover up the irregularities of the Iran-Contra scandal) filed, without showing any evidence whatsoever, accusations of drug trafficking towards the United States against myself and against senior Venezuelan State officials, even though data from the Department of Defense itself show that, unlike Colombia and Honduras, two of Washington’s allied countries, Venezuela is not a primary transit country towards the United States.

It is clear that the Trump Administration is creating a smokescreen to cloud the improvised and erratic handling of the pandemic in the United States. The most optimistic forecast show that close to 240,000 souls will be lost in the United States. From the beginning, Donald Trump downplayed and even denied it, the same way he has done with climate change. Today, the crisis in the United States aggravates simply because, despite having the resources, he is not willing to transform the healthcare system to prioritize full care for the population instead of profit-based private medicine, insurance companies and pharmaceutical industry.

We in Venezuela do not want an armed conflict in our region. We want brotherly relations of cooperation, exchange and respect.

We cannot accept war threats, nor blockades, nor can we accept the intention of installing an international tutelage that violates our sovereignty and disavows the progress made in the last year in the sincere political dialogue between the government and a large part of the Venezuelan opposition that wants political solutions and not oil wars.

Based on the foregoing, I call upon the people of the United States to stop to this madness, to hold your officials accountable and to force them to focus their attention and their resources on urgently addressing the pandemic. I also ask, together with the end to military threats, the end to the illegal sanctions and blockade that restrict the access of humanitarian goods that are so necessary for the country today. I wholeheartedly ask you not to allow your country to be dragged once again into another unending conflict, another Viet Nam, another Iraq, but this time, closer to home.

The peoples of the United States and Venezuela are not as different as their lies intend us to believe. We are peoples seeking a more just, free, and compassionate society. Let us not let the particular interests of minorities blinded by ambition to set us apart. We, as our leader Hugo Chavez once said, share the same dream. The dream of Martin Luther King is also the dream of Venezuela and its revolutionary government. I invite you to struggle together in order to make that dream come true.

No to a United States war against Venezuela. No more criminal sanctions. We want peace.

Nicolas Maduro Moros, President, Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela"

There are a couple questions that I would like you to ponder, the answers of which may lend a degree of credence point out and add to President Maduro’s criticism of U.S. drug-war hypocrisy. In light of the Trump administration’s indictment of President Maduro and the $15,000,000 bounty placed on his head; Why are the Sacklers, the OxyContin pushing owners of Purdue Pharma, and the Contra Terrorist Arming / Cocaine trafficking Oliver North still walking free.
