from Native Movement: "Join Native Movement and AKPIRG in protecting economic stimulus payments for People not profit! Clink the link to send a letter to your legislators, it's fast and makes a difference>>> Right now, predatory lenders, debt collectors, and banks are garnishing the economic stimulus checks during the coronavirus pandemic. That funding is meant to cover families' basic needs, not bolster corporate profit. Send a letter to our congressional delegation through the link below, and tell our elected officials to put a freeze on debt collection/garnishment of economic impact payments! #PeoplesBallOut #ProtectWorkingPeople"

"May 3 is World Press Freedom Day - celebrations around the world, some in the form of online debates and workshops. UNESCO is launching a global campaign on media and social media channels, with a focus on "Journalism without Fear or Favour" ... The sub-themes are:

- Safety of Women and Men Journalists and Media Workers
- Independent and Professional Journalism free from Political and Commercial Influence
- Gender Equality in All Aspect of the Media
May 3 acts as a reminder to governments of the need to respect their commitment to press freedom. It is also a day of reflection among media professionals about issues of press freedom and professional ethics. It is an opportunity to:

- celebrate the fundamental principles of press freedom;
- assess the state of press freedom throughout the world;
- defend the media from attacks on their independence;
- and pay tribute to journalists who have lost their lives in the line of duty.

World Press Freedom Conference 2020 [got re-scheduled to] 18 to 20 Oct 18-20 ... a joint celebration of World Press Freedom Day and the International Day to End Impunity for Crimes against Journalists (2 November)... from winwithoutwar: “Right now, behind closed doors, defense lobbyists are quietly using every ounce of their influence to get billions and billions more of our tax dollars for the Pentagon’s already gigantic budget. They’re trying to use a global health crisis to boost their record profits even higher... Last week, Senator Tom Cotton — who has received tens of thousands in campaign contributions from the arms industry — introduced a bill proposing at least $14 BILLION in additional funds to boost the bottom line of weapons dealers… and BILLIONS more for an unrelated new weapons wishlist.

"The Pentagon ALREADY gets nearly a trillion dollars each year — 15 times annual U.S. contributions to the World Health Organization and the budgets of the Centers for Disease Control and National Institutes of Health, combined. And unlike other industries, only a minuscule number of arms manufacturers have paused production.

"If we don’t seize the moment, already bloated and corrupt arms dealers will receive EVEN MORE funds — funds that are being denied to frontline health workers, undocumented communities, and families struggling to make rent and get food on the table.

"Just this week Congress found $545 MILLION DOLLARS to go towards Trump’s racist border wall from Pentagon-funded projects. That’s half a billion dollars NOT going towards ventilators, state and local budgets, and keeping paychecks flowing.
"Boeing — which receives a THIRD of its income from the Pentagon (and your tax dollars) — ALREADY got a pseudo bailout of $882 million to restart a paused contract for refueling planes that, just a month ago, were slammed as not working by the Air Force’s top General.

"[Just Friday], a key decision-maker on Pentagon spending, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Adam Smith, told reporters that he would not support additional COVID money for the Pentagon, noting that the Pentagon should use the money in its existing budget to cover pandemic response needs. Powerful leaders are hearing us, and starting to echo our call — and we just HAVE to ride this momentum!" *from CodePink: "Should your $$ bail out weapons companies? This May Day, the stakes are higher than ever: 26 million Americans have filed for unemployment, 9.2 million have lost their health insurance, and we’re facing a global pandemic with a crumbling healthcare infrastructure. We may not be in the streets, but you can still join the movement calling for a #PeoplesBailout and tell Congress: Bailout People, not the Pentagon!"

An outline of current COVID-19 guidelines as presented by Sen.Elvi Gray-Jackson on 4-29-20:

Some Statewide COVID-19 Restrictions Lifted

- Travel to communities on the road system is now allowed for any purpose for members of the same household. (Includes recreation or sightseeing)
- Travelers should wear a mask when interacting with vendors at stores or gas stations.

The State of Alaska is allowing some non-essential businesses to reopen if they follow the new guidelines. Restaurants can open for limited in-person dining, ... with reservations and at only 25% capacity.
- Walk-ins prohibited.
- Must have hand sanitizer available.
- 10 feet between tables.
- Only household members allowed at a table.
- All employees must wear fabric face coverings.
- All restaurants are still allowed to remain open for delivery and curbside takeout service.

Limited in-store shopping is permitted at retail stores.

- No more than 20 customers or 25% of the building’s maximum occupancy.
- Maintain a social distance of at least six feet between customers.
- All employees and customers must wear fabric face coverings.
- Businesses that provide personal services can open for limited services. (Includes barbers, nail salons, and hairdressers)
- Appointments are required.
- No walk-in customers.
- One customer per staff member.
Customers must be screened ahead of their appointment for COVID-19 symptoms and recent travel. Workstations must be cleaned after each customer.

Governor Dunleavy extended the health mandate governing international and interstate travel until May 19.
- All visitors to Alaska are required to self-quarantine for 14 days and monitor for symptoms of COVID-19.
- Travelers are required to sign a form with their contact information and the address where they will self-quarantine.
- Violators are subject to a $25,000 fine or jail time.

The social distancing requirements in Alaska have been extended until further notice.

Health Care Services Can Resume
- Health care providers are now allowed to resume services that don’t require the use of personal protective equipment. (Includes physicals, routine exams, and minimal procedures)
- Providers must screen all patients for recent illness, travel, fever, or recent exposure to COVID-19. (Test all patients for COVID-19, if possible)
- Starting on May 4, health care providers can resume non-urgent and elective services.
  - All patients should be tested for COVID-19 within 48 hours.
  - No visitors except for end of life visits, a parent of a minor, and one spouse or caregiver.
  - Patients should have a plan in place for returning to their home community if travel restrictions are in place.
  - State health officials believe the State has enough protective medical equipment and hospital capacity to allow elective procedures to resume.

The State of Alaska is requiring health insurers to waive cost-sharing for COVID-19 testing.
-- Insurers are required to liberalize telehealth benefits.

Fishing in Alaska
- Alaska’s subsistence, sport, and personal use fisheries will open this year despite the COVID-19 pandemic.
- The ADF&G commissioner stressed that the dept is developing plans to protect employees, fishermen, & fishing communities.
  - Anyone coming from out-of-state must self-quarantine for 14 days. (Quarantining onboard is allowed)
  - Staff will be encouraged to wear face coverings when interacting with the public.
  - The department is developing plans to medevac staff who display COVID-19 symptoms.
  - Rapid testing machines are being deployed to fishing communities.

Health Mandate 17 puts in place protective measures for independent commercial fishing vessels. (Covers vessels not fishing under a fleet-wide workforce protective plan)
  - Captains must keep a COVID-19 log certifying that crew members have been screened and completed the mandatory self-quarantine.
  - Prior to fishing, captains must provide a signed copy of the vessel’s “Acknowledgement Form” to a tender or processor.
  - All crewmembers must be screened for COVID-19 symptoms and travel to areas with widespread COVID-19 transmission.
  - Crewmembers must wear a cloth face covering while in transit.
  - Crewmembers need documentation from their captain or employer indicating that they are essential “Critical Infrastructure Worker.”
  - All captains, crew members, processing workers, and others arriving in Alaska must self-quarantine for 14 days. (Temperature taken twice)
  - All face-to-face interaction between crew and shore-based workers must be kept to an absolute minimum.
• Health Mandate 17 includes a series of best practices for life onboard vessels.

Several state and federal fisheries are currently underway. Participants in fisheries are being asked to take precautions to prevent getting sick.

- Fish as close to home as possible; - Practice social distancing; - Use a mask while fishing.

There is growing concern about how to handle many of Alaska’s commercial fisheries... concerned that outside fishermen and processors could bring COVID-19 to previously uninfected areas.

Commercial fishing has been labeled an essential industry by the State of Alaska.”

audio & music played with this week's broadcast:

-- "Hello this is The Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford with picks of the week of May 3, 2020. Today I’m going to touch upon the subject of bullying.

According to the US Government website StopBullying.gov, bullying is “unwanted, aggressive behavior among school aged children that involves a real or perceived power imbalance. The behavior is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time. Both kids who are bullied and who bully others may have serious, lasting problems... Kids who bully use their power—such as physical strength—to control or harm others... Bullying behaviors happen more than once or have the potential to happen more than once... Bullying includes actions such as making threats, spreading rumors, attacking someone physically or verbally, and excluding someone from a group on purpose.”

But bullying is not an antisocial malady limited to children. In fact it has been a staple of US policy, perhaps since the founding of the republic. Consider the following from an article by Kate Linthicum, Wendy Fry, and Gabriela Minjares, writing for the April 30 L.A. Times.

“Even as COVID-19 deaths soar at factories in Mexico, the United States is sending a clear message: It’s time for plants that have stopped production to get back to work.

“The U.S. government has mounted a campaign to persuade Mexico to reopen many factories that were closed because of the country’s social distancing guidelines, warning that the supply chain of the North American free-trade zone could be permanently crippled if factories don’t resume production soon.

“‘The destruction of the economy is also a health threat,’ Christopher Landau, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, tweeted last week. ‘There are risks everywhere, but we don’t all stay at home for fear we are going to get in a car accident.’

“Pressure has also come from American corporate chief executives — more than 300 of whom sent a letter to Mexican President Andrés Manuel López Obrador saying they were “deeply concerned” about the closing of factories — and from the U.S. Department of Defense, which has implored Mexico to reopen plants that make parts for defense contractors.

“Mexican officials have begun to cave, despite warnings from health authorities here that reopening factories too soon could lead to widespread death.

“Businesses deemed nonessential have been ordered closed in Mexico and in the U.S., but the two countries have different definitions of what is considered essential, with Mexico embracing a more restrictive set of criteria... the push has sparked anger in Mexico, especially in large foreign-owned factories along the northern border known as maquiladoras, whose finished products are all for export.

Workers at multiple plants have held protests in recent weeks over a rise in outbreaks and worker deaths.
“They are criminals who are only interested in their capital,” said a worker at a factory owned by Wisconsin-based Regal Beloit Corp. that has been closed since employees walked off the job April 15 after several of their colleagues died.

An April 18 letter from the company to employees confirmed three suspected COVID-19 deaths at the Juarez factory. Workers say five others have died since.

“They don’t care about us,” said the worker, who did not give his name because he was not authorized to speak to the media. The company, which produces motors for appliances, ignored signs of an outbreak for weeks, he said, and failed to provide even basic protective material such as sanitizing gel.

A spokesman for Regal Beloit lamented “the passing of our associates” but said the company does not know whether they contracted the disease at its plant.

According to a recent article in Business insider other US companies involved include military contractors, General Electric, Honeywell, and Lockheed Martin. This brings us to another aspect of the bully’s threat making, its attacking other nations, physically or verbally, and excluding them from participating in trade. Known as economic sanctions. These bullying behaviors devalue and inflate other country’s currencies and tank their International credit by pressuring other countries to stop doing business with the bullied country. The first sectors affected are generally medicines, food, power, water treatment, and other essential needs. Sanctions are war crimes in that they target civilians. U.S. sanctions have been responsible for millions of deaths around the world.

Just as Mexico and the US disagree on what is an essential enterprise, Cuba has its own way of seeing itself in the world, as an international medical service provider, and for this, especially their generous humanitarian efforts around the earth to combat COVID-19, Cuba has recently been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize.

“I’m a truthful man from the land of the palm tree. Before I die I want to share these verses of my soul. I cultivate a white rose, in July the same as in January, for the true friend who offers me his hand in friendship. And, for the cruel one who tears out the heart by which I live, I cultivate neither thorns nor bitter leaves; I cultivate a white rose. With the poor people of the earth, I want to cast my fate.” Playing For Change | Song Around The World sing, Guantanamera.

“This could be a teachable moment.” Next, David Rovics sings, “Once This Pandemic Is Over.”
