- Gyms, fitness centers, swimming pools
- Sports events
- Lodges and day camps

"Restrictions, however, still apply to international and interstate travel until June 2. Other mandates that are still in effect apply to:

- Independent commercial fishing vessels
- Visitation to senior centers, prisons, and other institutions

"For more about this, go to Alaska’s COVID-19 Health Mandates web site.

"Even though the governor has eased up on restraints, he asks folks to continue to follow these guidelines:

- Wash your hands. Thoroughly. Frequently. For at least 20 seconds at a time.
- Constantly clean surfaces that get touched such as doorknobs, phones, light switches, and lamps.
- Out in public, keep six feet away from people.
- Wear masks.
- Stay home when sick” Sen.Bish

Monday, May 25  (Memorial Day federal holiday) Veterans For Peace states: "This Memorial Day we remember all who have died in war and understand that no one wins in war. Many of us have been personally touched by war. But we must also extend that mourning. We must remember the civilian victims, and their families, who are all equally human beings. Honoring and remembering some deaths while ignoring others not only perpetuates war, but also ignores the moral injuries of war, which some now recognize as a significant cause of veteran suicide.

"There are people who profit from war, mainly those who invest in the defense industry or the oil sector. But the veterans and civilians who survive war suffer for the rest of their lives. And the entire society is robbed of billions of tax dollars which could be spent on jobs, education, healthcare, infrastructure and sustainable energy.

"The events of the last few months have revealed what you have always known, the world is interconnected in a deep way and what affects one of us can affect all of us... Take Action at Home for Memorial Day

Comment on the proposal to Modify an Alaska Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Individual Permit for Fairbanks Gold Mining, Incorporated, Fort Knox Mine. Fort Knox is an open pit gold mine located 25 miles northwest of Fairbanks. Treated mine wastewater is discharged to the Old Fish Creek Channel, an ephemeral stream that flows into the constructed freshwater reservoir. Based on outdated information, the current permit contains inaccurate flow restrictions. This modification revises flow restrictions contained in the permit based on the most current information. A statement of basis and associated documents are available at http://www.dec.alaska.gov/water/wastewater.aspx. 4- 5pm -webinar on women and the draft: https://www.codepink.org/draft_women_hell_no "Despite the COVID-19 pandemic, Congress could soon consider whether to end Selective Service registration or try to expand it to women. It's critically important to opponents of the draft and war to (1) contact your Representative and Senators and (2) educate, agitate, and organize now to finalize the victory of decades of resistance to draft registration... Because of the pandemic, consideration of the NDAA [National Defense Authorization Act] is likely to be especially rushed, with fewer hearings and less transparency than usual."

from U.S. Peace Council: "U.S. Military Threat Against Iranian Tankers: An Act of International Piracy That Can Escalate into a War - Iran’s daring decision to dispatch five oil tankers carrying much-needed fuel for the struggling people of Venezuela is a definitive challenge to U.S. government’s illegal policy of unilateral economic sanctions and its naval blockade of Venezuela. Iran’s action has created a decisive test of the Trump administration’s willingness to continue its violations of international law and the UN Charter by taking military action against Iranian tankers. The U.S. Peace Council strongly condemns any military actions against the Iranian tankers and calls upon the Trump administration and the U.S. government to put an end to its violations of the UN Charter immediately. We call upon all supporters of peace and international law around the world to contact the U.S. White House (+1 202 456-1111) and demand that the U.S. Government respect international law and not interfere with the porting of the Iranian oil tankers."

from Council for a Livable World: "On Thursday, the Trump administration announced it would withdraw from the 1992 Open Skies Treaty, which allows the 34 participating countries, including the United States and Russia, to conduct mutually agreed-upon military surveillance flights over other participating countries. Bell explained to The Washington Post, the Associated Press, NBC, Newsweek and others, that while the treaty had certain compliance issues, it has helped prevent miscalculations and misunderstandings that could have otherwise led to conflict, and withdrawing simply has no benefits to the United States. [CLW] Executive Director Tierney called the move reckless and said the president should reverse the decision. That is likely the only way to save U.S. participation in the treaty — a potential future president who wishes to re-enter the treaty would need 67 votes in the Senate, which, unfortunately, is unlikely."

from Louie Flora, AK Center: "Lt. Governor Kevin Meyer [announced] that Alaska will not conduct a vote at home for the August primary. The legislature provided the Administration with authority, but no mandate to conduct a statewide vote at home in its COVID-19 response legislation. Federal money has been allocated to the state to conduct vote at home... Vote at-home systems are in place in Washington, Oregon, California, Hawaii, Utah, and Colorado, while Montana, Nevada, and Arizona allow voters to receive all ballots by mail. They are safe, secure, and have proven to increase voting... That the legislature failed in the deepening dusk of the legislative session to pass some kind of vote-at-home mandate, and funding for it, is unfortunate. They can and should call themselves into a special session before the August Primary and pass legislation similar to HB 150, which establishes Vote at Home as the norm for Alaska. Under the status quo in Alaska, a voter can request and receive a by-mail ballot without having to offer a reason. It is a two-step self-initiated process many may be unaware of right now. It is called “No-excuse Absentee.” The status quo voting system in Alaska does not, like a statewide vote-at-home system, require all Alaskan voters receive a ballot in the mail... To request your absentee ballot for the August primary election, fill out this form and mail it to the Division of Elections. .. " from Friends Committee on National Legislation (FCNL): "Peace in Afghanistan: Ending the War Responsibly FCNL released a new report this week outlining how lawmakers can bring the 19-year war in Afghanistan to a peaceful end. The report, which draws on extensive interviews with diplomacy, security, and state-building experts, promotes a full withdrawal of troops while minimizing harm to Afghan civilians."

from Emma's Revolution: "if you're in need of good news--and who isn't these days?--drop everything and listen to "Hotel Corona, a beautiful and moving piece on NPR that is inspiring, complicated and worth every minute of your time" from Northern Alaska Environmental Center: "VOTE! One of our most important roles as (Golden Valley Electric Association) member-owners is to vote for the Board of Directors for our respective districts.... The Board creates strategic directives (including fuel sources and carbon reduction goals), among other things, so who represents your district influences the direction of our electric co-op. Voting matters and your vote counts! "

... For some of us, shadows of planes in the sky and loud noises overhead flood panic through our bodies. Due to a technical problem, the following items were cut off from last week’s audio broadcast of Community News and Opportunities for Action, May 17.

"Hello this is The Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford with picks of the week of May 17, 2020.

Were they acts devised to shield the commander in-chief, the Congress, the so-called two party system, a bloated military industrial complex, and / or a disproportionately wealthy economic system from widespread public realization that every one of the those mentioned institutions, their priorities, policies, and tools of the trade are wholly ill equipped to deal effectively with any real threats to humanity? Maybe, to some degree, they were genuine, if but a bit obtuse; gestures, offering to share a little of their super-hero creature status, to bolster the esprit de corps, of a large section of our society that has long faced hazards without so much as a modicum of recognition, let alone appreciation days. I’m speaking of the U.S. Air and Space Force’s blatant use of implements of mass murder and wanton destruction to convey a sense of appreciation for those on the front lines of the COVID-19 pandemic; the Air Forces flyover of F-35s and F-16s and the Space Force’s launching of the obscenely expensive secret mission X-37B space plane. Fly me to

According to an article in the October 30 issue of Popular Mechanics, it costs $44,000 to fly one F-35 for one hour. That’s equal to the price of one high-end ventilator. Looking at the operating cost of one F-35 fighter jet through its expected life span, can we visualize 8,000 ventilators instead?

I can’t say what the operating cost of the X-37B amounts to. Seeing that its mission is mostly secret, the costs are only available on a need to know basis; and those with a need to know are likely to be only the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Space Force, Boeing and their ilk, as well as those Congress People who have shed any aversion – if they indeed ever held any – to the keeping of crucial secrets from their constituents.
They tell us, as the most powerful nation on earth, we have no choice. We need to be wary of our enemies. If we, as a nation, do not pursue these weapon systems, maintain our bloated arsenal, while stationing forces around the globe, our enemies will; and who then will look after all those people around the world who are counting on us to protect them.

One of those enemies, we are told is the evil communist Cuba. The U.S. State Dept. has recently told the world that Cuba's program of deploying medical missions to the earth's poorer countries is an act of human trafficking in doctors. Secretary of State Pompeo says that Cuba is enslaving doctors in a worldwide effort to propagandize those poor unsuspecting countries, into accepting communist dictatorship. The doctors, they say, are sent on missions that they cannot leave.

After a long hard forced march up Fort Jackson’s Drag Ass Hill in 1971, my company stopped for platoon photos at the fort’s parade grounds. While we were waiting our turn to be memorialized as the 4th Platoon, B Company, 6th Battalion, 12th Combat Training Brigade, drill sergeant Potts informed us that it had come to the commander’s attention that a troop had taken it upon himself to shave his head. This, they considered, was an unapproved destruction of government property. Sergeant Potts informed us at the time that we were GI’s, government issue, property.

The first tune is about a conscientious objector, who left the United States Army during the Iraq War, was convicted of desertion, and sent to prison. State Radio sings. Camilo [ISRC # CAN110501067]

Next David Rovics sings about another human catastrophe that F-35, X-37Bs, and U.S. troops stationed in over 800 locations around the Earth cannot save us from. Couch By the Street.

I spent some time in Cuba back in 2015. While there, I had the good fortune of spending an evening with Alexey Rodríguez Mola and Magia Lopez a couple of hip hop artists, known as Obsession, living in Regla, a Afro-Cuban cultural, and industrial suburb east of Havana. They said that Cuba had its problems with racism too, and that the Cuban revolution was an ongoing process. Alexey explained that they loved Americans and American music and that they were excited at the prospects of collaborating musically with Americans, but they did not want to have a McDonalds down the street. Next Obsession sings Victimas [ISRC # USHM91139214]

While in Cuba I also had the great pleasure of visiting Havana’s Latin American School of Medicine. There I got to meet students studying medicine for free. Their only tuition was spending a couple years in public service, serving poor communities in Cuba and back home in their own countries. I met student doctors from Mali, Cameroon, Nigeria etc., even Wisconsin. Next a group of artists in Las Tunis, Cuba sing a salute to those doctors and other medical service providers on the front lines of the Corona Virus Pandemic, some of them in worlds most impoverished area. Cancion Ejercito de batas blancas Song Army in white robes."
