Peace Justice Sustainability

From Friends Committee on National Legislation: "In the House, the Appropriations Committee adopted three amendments to its FY21 defense spending bill to reassert congressional war powers. Two would repeal outdated Authorizations for Use of Military Force (AUMFs), which have been used to justify endless wars abroad. The other would prohibit funds for war with Iran without authorization from Congress. The House also appropriated additional funding for peacebuilding, including $130 million for the U.S. Strategy on Women, Peace, and Security. To end U.S. complicity in the Yemen war, House appropriators passed a ban on munitions sales to Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates."

"Energy Analyst [job offering] FCAC is excited to partner with AKPIRG in offering this position to advance shared goals towards Alaska’s public interest. The Energy Analyst will develop accessible research tools to support policy-informed campaigns which ensure that Alaskans have just, transparent, and accountable public institutions as well as accountable corporate actors. This will include, but will not be limited to, researching relevant information, connecting with experts, synthesizing laws and policies for community outreach, attending public meetings, communicating with stakeholders, developing press releases, understanding and engaging in regulatory systems and processes, and producing reports and public comments as needed. Click here to find more information and to apply."

Additionally, from fcac: "FCAC is hiring several positions in the coming months... Upcoming Opportunities: Communications Coordinator and Renewable Energy Organizer. We should have these positions ready to share by mid-August, check out the FCAC website for more information!"

from worldBEYONDwar: "While Tuesday saw more votes to reduce the U.S. military budget than we’ve seen in Congress in the past, the House of Representatives defeated by 324 to 93 a proposal to move a mere 10% of the Pentagon’s pile of money to human and environmental needs. Polling showed overwhelming public support, but our so-called representatives didn’t represent us. In recent polling by Data for Progress, by 56% to 27% U.S. voters favored what the House just voted down. If told that some of the money would go to the Centers for Disease Control, the public support was 57% to 25%. Support was 70% among Democratic voters and 50% among Republican voters...

Let [Rep. Don Young] know that you are paying attention by clicking here."

from CodePink: "The same methods that were used to drive us to war in Iraq are right now being used to drive a narrative that paints China as the mortal enemy of the United States. In a dangerous escalation, the U.S. has just asked China to close its consulate in Houston, TX — a violation of international law. It is also the U.S. that refuses to commit to a “No First Use” of nuclear weapons policy. While the Trump administration and even the Dems, including Biden, are driving hate, let us push towards a NO nuclear policy — one with a return to a vision for peace. Sign this letter to Biden" from Alyse Galvin: “After a month on the job, the new Postmaster General has just announced a “cost-cutting” plan that undermines the postal service’s mission to provide prompt, reliable, and efficient mail no matter where you live. This new plan will slow mail delivery to Alaskans and all Americans by reducing work hours and eliminating overtime for employees. Since the USPS is already understaffed, it will cause delays in service. This is unacceptable.

According to the American Postal Workers Union, the goal of these cuts isn’t to stabilize the institution but instead undermine it so Americans will seek out private companies to provide reliable service.

For too long, Washington politicians have tried to privatize the Postal Service. They want to allow private companies to set costs and determine their own delivery areas. Privatization would force Alaskans to pay more for mail and leave some of our more remote areas without any service.

With the Postal Service set to run out of funds this September without Congressional help, it’s clear that something has to change to keep the Postal Service solvent. But privatization should not be the answer."
Audio & Songs broadcast with this week’s Community News:

-- "Hello this is The Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford with picks of the week of July 26, 2020.

"I’d like first of all to share my heartfelt welcome home to the soldiers of the 1st Stryker Brigade Combat Team, 25th Infantry Division! I’m pleased to see you’re back and wish all of you all the joys of family, friends, and a goodly helping of the healthful spiritually invigorating experience that an Alaska summer has to offer, COVID-19 not withstanding. Hello this is The Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford with picks of the week of July 26, 2020.

Two articles in this past Friday’s Fairbanks Daily News Miner deserve our attention. The first article, a front-page piece titled Fort Wainwright soldiers return from 9-month deployment to Middle East, opens describing the brigade’s Thursday social distancing compliant color uncasing ceremony, a military tradition officiating the return of the brigade to its home base; brigade commander Col. Mathew Brown commenting, “Today our colors are uncased; their again at home.” Here’s hoping the remaining 100 soldiers, yet to return, make it home as scheduled safely next week.

During the deployment, according to Major Charlie Deitz, US Army Alaska Public Affairs Officer, each of the brigade’s battalions was partnered with an Iraqi army unit for the purpose of training the Iraqis. Major Deitz did not offer an explanation as to why after 17 years of US military operations in Iraq there remained a need for such training. He did, however, clarify that very soon after deployment; “Iraq as a whole, and especially in Baghdad saw a lot of unrest, because the protestors were pretty angry at the government. The Iraqi security forces we were partnering with were significantly involved in dealing with those protests.”

Postal workers are on the front lines of this pandemic, delivering Alaskans food, medicine, and other essential packages. .."

Note: The USPS Fairness Act, HR 2382, which would end the unique mandate for the Postal Service to prefund retiree health care decades in advance, passed the House 3 to 1, but has not yet been taken up by the Senate. Call 202-224-3121 to tell them to do so ASAP! The USPS Emergency Assistance Act is currently in the Senate. "Call your Senators urgently. Tell them to support stimulus funding for our public Postal Service. Use the form or dial (844) 402-1001" per APWU.org

"Earthjustice Alaska office hiring staff attorney. For litigators and advocates committed to saving the planet and the people who depend on it, Staff Attorney at Earthjustice is the best job on the planet. Learn more about our Staff Attorney careers and work online here: https://earthjustice.org/about/jobs/staff-attorney" from Northern Alaska Environmental Center news.

"“President Trump has correctly concluded that a full and speedy withdrawal of our troops [from the Middle East] is imperative,” [potential Afghanistan ambassador-to-Afghanistan nominee Ruger] wrote in the American Interest in late May. “Our national interest isn’t served by continuing to wage a futile battle but by exiting it.” per DANIEL LIPPMAN in Politico on 7/17/2020

You can let the White House know if you agree by calling the White House at 1-202-456-1111"
Army Public Affairs Officer Deitz did not mention that the protestors’ anger was largely focused on the presence of U.S. military forces or that the Iraqi Parliament had voted to expel US forces from their country. He did say that they had been experiencing rocket attacks almost from the time of their arrival and spent most of their time focusing on protecting coalition forces, as well as “coordinating air support” for Iraqi security forces.

The second article, “House and Senate both pass their version of defense spending bill”, although covering our congressional trio’s yearly scramble for Alaska’s slice of war pork pie, did manage to address a serious problem that requires critical thinking. “an amendment requiring the Department of Defense to complete a study addressing service member suicides in remote installations. This provision, which was sought by Rep. Don Young and Sens. Dan Sullivan and Lisa Murkowski, is a direct response to the recent increase in suicides by service members at Fort Wainwright. Since May of 2018, 10 soldiers stationed at the installation have committed suicide and one other has attempted suicide.”

According to the News Miner, “Both bills also include provisions that would authorize over $100 million of spending at Fort Wainwright, which looks to improve quality of life on the installation in an effort to mitigate suicidal ideation. This would include $59 million for a new dorm-style barracks and $55 million for a child development center.” But is this slice of pork a solution to the tragedy of suicide? Might root cause of the problem be systemic, stretching into the very depths of the so-called mission?

Consider moral injury. It is an emerging concept, increasingly recognized by the Armed Forces and the Dept. of Veterans Affairs. When men and women in the military believe they did or saw something that betrays their deeply held sense of right and wrong, it can create inner conflict and self blame, and shake up their moral foundation. They may feel that what they did or saw is unforgivable. They experience “moral injury”.

Consider the following story from a friend and fellow Veteran For Peace Camilo Mejía’s struggle with moral injury and where he found resolution.
