DARK MONEY is an award-winning documentary “examining one of the greatest present threats to American democracy: the influence of untraceable corporate money on our elections and elected officials. The film takes viewers to Montana—a frontline in the fight to preserve fair elections nationwide—to follow an intrepid local journalist working to expose the real-life impacts of the US Supreme Court’s Citizens United decision. Through this gripping story, DARK MONEY uncovers the ...vital truth of how American elections are bought and sold.” Please preview the film. ## Audio & Songs broadcast with this week’s Community News:

"Moose Picks ... Hello this is Rob Mulford, the Asymmetric Moose, with picks for the week of October 11, 2020:

If your constitution is anything like mine, you may recently have found yourself: hesitating before opening the door to your US Postal Service incoming mail receptacle, for the dread of being caught in an explosive onslaught of menacing looking of 8 x 11 inch glossy cardstock; or reluctant to consume what could be a course of thoughtful critical discourse, for fear that you may yet again fall prey to a like ambush, this time coming from some expensive piece of real estate in your local paper. These fusillades generally consist of a series of trigger-word bombs evoking, directly or indirectly, capital’s favorite bugbear, that scary s-word, “Socialism”. Oh, oh, there I said it, Socialism, and it isn’t even safe harbor hours, oh my! Trouble is, folks that are often attacked for being socialists, say Joe Biden, Nancy Pelosi, Chuck Schumer, Al Gross, or Alyse Galvin are not even socialists. Take it from someone who has carried his red party membership card for over a decade now, yours truly. Also, after having taken the effort to forgo trigger words, and actually digest what the socialist are saying, you may find yourself joining on the bandwagon.

The next tune was written a couple Presidential elections ago, when those same purveyors of deception were bombarding us with yet another barrage of glossy cardstock. David Rovics sings about it in, If Only It Was True.

Speaking of perusing the pages of our local paper for critical content and thoughtful discourse, a Community Perspective appearing in this past Friday’s Daily News Miner, by Professor Herb Schroeder might seem to fill the bill. In the piece Dr. Schroeder states,

“The Alaska Native and Science and Engineering Program has been guiding Alaska Native People and other Alaskans to success in our state’s resource development industry for 25-plus years... the support that ANSEP has received from the oil and gas industry has been unwavering.

The industry’s commitment to Alaskans is something we can count on. Unfortunately, the industry hasn’t received the same consistency when it comes to Alaska’s tax structure. Their future investment in the state is in question as Alaskans vote this November on whether to change the oil tax structure yet again...

...Alaska’s resource industries have provided financial support as well as internships opportunities for the ANSEP students for more than 25 years.

ExxonMobil is also the founding partner for the ANSEP Acceleration Academy, where students graduate from high school with two years or more of college completed, thereby saving the state and families thousands of dollars per student. Acceleration academy is a model we can adopt for every student in Alaska to reduce costs for the state and dramatically improve outcomes. This is transformational. What parent does not want their student to leave high school with years of college completed? Over the last decade, thousands of new students joined the ANSEP community as part of these...
industry-supported components...

... If you work hard, there are top-tier companies waiting to hire you so you can guide our state’s future. Our partner companies provide learning opportunities for ANSEP students now and the promise of economic stability for the future...

... To put the future of the industry in jeopardy is to do the same to these students futures. That is why I am voting no on Ballot Measure 1 – it is how we vote for a bright future for our state and our young people.”

I have just a few questions to interject at this juncture.

If indeed the industry has been providing such “unwavering” support for our education system for 25 years – a support I might venture that is specifically geared toward that industry and its profits – how is it that they were able to contribute this fine bit of selfless commitment for the two decades that preceding the passage of the Oil Tax Giveaway SB21?

If the “Acceleration Academy is a model we can adopt for every student in Alaska to reduce costs for the state and dramatically improve outcomes”, who is going to foot the bill, the oil companies, have the footed the entire costs of said programs to date? Will they cover all disciplines, the Humanities, the Arts inclusive?

If the oil industry has been such a godsend to our education system, how is it that we are haggling over the legalities of taking out bonds to cover the giveaways / credits already promised these wondrous benefactors whilst we struggle to foot the costs of providing the educational needs for our K through 12 grades and University?

Maybe we should recover those loses that we suffered at the passage of SB21 and invest some of our just revenues toward education, K through Ph.D. Let those smart young folks on the hill find us a path through the storms and conflagrations of global climate change, thus putting to rest the connivances of the fossil fuel oligarchs.

You know I gotta admit, it sucks just how topical this song remains since its release 10 years ago. Next Steve Forbert sings, The Oil Song

This is the Asymmetric Moose saying thank you for listening to the Alaska Peace Center’s News and Opportunities for Action, worker’s radio KWRK-LP 90.9 FM, and reminding you active duty service members and reservists out there: “Are you experiencing trouble with your enlistment, considering conscientious objector status, or just in need of counseling from professionals trained in the Uniform Code of Military Justice?
