Audio & Songs broadcast with this week’s Community News:

"Moose Picks … Hello this is Rob Mulford, the Asymmetric Moose, with picks for the week of October 11, 2020:
That was Solomon Burke singing None Of Us Are Free

Thank you, Heather, for yet another invaluable edition to your insightful and comprehensive weekly presentation of the news as it relates to issues of peace, justice and sustainability, how they effect our community and those opportunities we have to affect the just, healthy, and peaceful world we so desperately need and desire.

Hello, this is the Asymmetric Moose, Rob Mulford, with picks for the week of October 18th 2020. October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. What does that mean. My New Oxford American Dictionary defines domestic violence as violent or aggressive behavior within the home, typically involving the violent abuse of a spouse or partner. I think the behavior is a bit more ubiquitous though, as it can be seen outside the home environment as well. It’s generally arises out of a lack of equity of power within a relationship. Say, “I’m stronger so I can do to you what I like, and you’re gonna just have take it.” Some do take it out of fear, love, insecurity, or lack of self-esteem. Some don’t! Although I do not necessarily advocate her choice of response to the threat, I cannot condemn her for it either. Next Tori Amos sings: Me And A Gun. [ISRC # USATL0200474]

Not all abuse leaves obvious physical bruises. A few years ago, I became suddenly awakened when a volley of angry words came crashing through the wall of my Redstone, Colorado motel room. Next door a young man was screaming at his wife, “Goddamn it, bitch. All I do is work to provide a roof over your and the baby’s head, feed you guys, and pay for your clothes, and f-ing entertainment. What the hell do I get out of the deal, but gimmy, gimmy, gimmy? Just then a young child started crying and the voice of a second young woman in the room said, “Sis I’ll take the baby outside, get a little fresh air.” Lying there listening to the continuing barrage of insult, and pondering what I should do, if anything, I thought of words that I had hurled in a similar fashion years earlier, some of them just a ways down the street. Forty years later they sounded like indiscriminate abuse hurled at someone whose giving, giving, giving had been discounted as worthless, by a man on the powerless side of another relationship, that with his coal mine employer. Sound familiar?

Speaking of iniquitous relationships with coalmine employers, the other day, while perusing my copy of the State of Alaska’s Official Election Pamphlet, I suddenly became aghast at the sight of a photograph of one of the candidates for the office of United States President. The offending visage belonged to Don Blankenship the murderous coalmine operator responsible for the death, by explosion of methane gas and coal dust, of 29 of my fellow miners. And! The pamphlet said that he was the candidate of the Constitution party. Say what, the Constitution, whose constitution! Then it donned on me,
“Yes that’s perfect”. That document has served for years as the guarantor of the continuance of some of the worst examples of iniquitous relationship. Then I thought of a good question for the strict constructionist candidate for the Supreme Court, Amy Coney Barrett, “Can you examine the Doctrine of Discovery for legitimacy, and if after having found none, would you vote to expunge it from U.S. property jurisprudence?”

Next Don Blankenship sings, A DUI Before Midnight, and It's another 30 days in the hole.

And speaking of those iniquitous relationships often shielded by Don’s favorite document, Buffy St. Marie sings about the Windigo in Priests of the Golden Bull. [ISRC # CAT241700103]

There are those, of course, who say no, even no more, and or never again to the most extreme of those iniquitous relationships. Some even do prison time for it, like my friend Camilo Mejia. Next State Radio sings Camilo. [ISRC # CAN111200681]

This is the Asymmetric Moose saying thank you for listening to the Alaska Peace Center’s News and Opportunities for Action, worker’s radio KWRK-LP 90.9 FM, and reminding you active duty service members and reservists out there: “Are you experiencing trouble with your enlistment, considering conscientious objector status, or just in need of counseling from professionals trained in the Uniform Code of Military Justice? Call the GI Rights Hotline at 877-447-4487 again that is the GI Rights Hotline at 877-447-4487. The call may save you a lot of grief, might even save your life.

Wage Peace.”
