Alaska Peace Center Activities and News, June 2022- May 2023

We have lost our beloved Suzanne Rich Osborn, 1940 – 2023. She and her husband, Phil Osborn, have been steady participants in APC activities for decades. She began her Peace activism walking from Kansas to Moscow, Russia in 1961.

She will continue to inspire our vision of Peace.

The War in Ukraine
By Alan Batten and Maia Genaux

Last year we published an article examining our concerns about the Russian military invasion of Ukraine. We are updating that article here. Our concerns persist, and unfortunately very little has changed.

"Every war eventually ends with diplomacy. The question is how long the killing goes on before the diplomats stop it." Phyllis Bennis used this language to cap off her op-ed about the Ukraine War (Populist Progressive, 1 April 2022). It encapsulates what will eventually end this destructive and heart-breaking war.

One can identify the initiation of this war as either the Russian invasion or the preceding many years of NATO provocation. This will shape an individual’s view of what is appropriate US/NATO involvement, the various culpabilities, etc.

The Alaska Peace Center does not condone armed conflict. The challenges of how to protect land, life and well-being are enormous given that stance. We consistently advocate for negotiation instead of weaponry. And we recognize that this stance does not meet the approval of many individuals affected by ongoing war. We continue to call out the overt racist aspect of the US population being strongly focused on the plight of the Ukrainians, while expressing much less concern about ongoing US engagement in the devastation of Palestinian, Syrian, many African populations, and other peoples and lands worldwide.

Well-being anywhere depends on well-being everywhere.

... Thanks to human intransigence, these wars are continuing. More people are being killed and injured, over 100 million are currently displaced. More toxins are being thrown into global air and water. ...

This Planet needs humans to find Peace.

An Arctic Nuclear-Weapons-Free Zone – Update
By Alan Batten and Maia Genaux

The events in Ukraine remind us that we are living continuously under the threat of a global nuclear holocaust.

In an effort to stop this threat, the International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons (ICAN) has been working worldwide since 2007 to get nations to sign on for abolition of nuclear weapons. In January 2021, the “Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons” (TPNW) entered into force at the UN with 92 signatories.

In another effort, there are already five nuclear-weapon-free zones (NWFZ) throughout the world plus the Antarctic, Seabed, Outer Space and Moon Treaties. These are multi-national treaties banning the development, manufacturing, control, possession, testing, stationing or transporting of nuclear weapons in a given area.

The end goal, as so aptly put by Nobel Prize winning Mexican diplomat Alfonso Garcia Robles, is to gradually increase the areas “from which nuclear weapons are prohibited to a point where the territories of the powers which possess these terrible weapons of mass destruction will be something like contaminated islets subject to quarantine”. By isolating nuclear weapon states, NWFZs send the powerful message that there is a consensus against the presence of nuclear weapons and that this should be the norm of the entire world.

Supporters of an Arctic NWFZ include Canadian Pugwash, the InterAction Council, the Inuit Circumpolar Council, Fairbanks and Juneau Veterans For Peace, and President Mikhail Gorbachev of the Soviet Union.

Support for the Alaskan part of an Arctic NWFZ is already codified in Alaska law.
See <http://www.akleg.gov/basis/statutes.asp#44.99.115> and scroll down to Sections 120 and 125. Alaska Statute Sec. 44.99.120. declares, in part, that it is the policy of the State of Alaska "to promote a mutual and verifiable freeze followed by reductions in nuclear warheads, missiles, and other delivery systems in order to halt the nuclear arms race and to reduce the risk of nuclear war."

The Alaska Peace Center is working with Juneau VFP chapter 100 and a coalition of their supporters, to make Alaskan youth aware of the extreme and continuing danger of nuclear weapons, to engage them in the movement to create an Arctic NWFZ, and to promote statewide awareness of the existing Alaska Statutes.
Updated Summary of BEAN POLL RESULTS
By Maia Genaux

The Bean Poll, created by Heather Koponen, is an opportunity to show how you would like your federal income tax dollars distributed, instead of as prescribed by the federal budget.

You get 20 beans, representing the federal taxes you pay, including income deductions for Social Security, etc. The question: How would you choose to distribute your 20 beans among the 6 categories we offered, listed below?

We offered this Bean Poll at the TVS Fair and the Renewable Energy Fair in 2019, 2021 and 2022 (2020 Covid). Of course, this is just an informal social poll, seeking public participation, opinions and conversation. Here we offer a moderately defensible effort to interpret the ’21–’22 results, in the context of the US 2022 Federal Budget.
